NOTES ON EXPLANATION

1. The initial dispatch in each brace is the first after midnight, and the others follow in consecutive order of the time of departure of trains.

2. The St. Louis post office should use all dispatches in the order shown. Incoming lines should, in each instance, use the first dispatch with which connection is made, but may make exceptions in the case of paper mail, of which there is not enough to make up for connections via express trains; such paper mail to be given the next dispatch with which direct connection is made.

3. The exceptions of a specific day in any dispatch refer to the day of departure of train from St. Louis, and such dispatches, on the day indicated, should be successively passed over till the first one is found which does not except said day, or, in a note, provides for a special dispatch on said day.

4. Package, pouch, and sack labels addressed to a railway post office should at all times show the proper train number and the point at which connection is made. Requests for credit for errors checked on slips which are not prepared in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph will not be favorably considered.

5. All routes shown in supply column are connected at the initial point of train unless otherwise specified under pouching directions.

6. Where a dispatch is shown to a line with which there is no direct connection and no pouching directions appear, the current monthly schedule will show an express pouch made by the round table of the St. Louis post office.

7. Offices enclosed in the same brace with and indented under another office are supplied from that office and should be included with such office or made up in Dis. packages for direct dispatches.

8. Only such directs are shown in the scheme as are necessitated by express pouches or separation lists, but such others should be made as case room will permit and the character and quantity of the mail worked will warrant. As a partial guide for making directs, note the following cities of over 10,000 population:

1. Chicago.
2. Peoria.
3. Rockford.
4. East St. Louis.
5. Springfield.
6. Oak Park.

SCHEME CORRECTIONS

1. In published scheme corrections care must be taken to distinguish between dispatches and notes.

2. Dispatches are shown in large type and notes in small type. The frequency, if shown, though in small type, is a part of the dispatch. Pouching directions, special dispatches, and explanatory matter are notes.

3. In making written corrections notes should be enclosed in parentheses to distinguish them from dispatches.

4. Instructions to erase a note do not affect the dispatch. Instructions to erase a dispatch involve the erasure of all notes immediately following or dependent upon such dispatch.
